

10 Resources for Free-for-Commercial-Use Images

There's no limit to stock photo websites requiring payment of $12 or more per photo, per size, leading to heaps spent to fill a website and blog posts. But don't think to cut corners by saving images straight from Google Images. Most images found there aren't licensed for commercial use, and even if they were, most require payment and attribution with a link back to the source to use them legally.

The keyword there is "legally." No photo/image/video is worth getting sued over, especially when there are at least 10 websites dedicated to providing the world with free-for-commercial-use images at no cost.

StockSnap.io

StockSnap.io offers thousands of free high-resolution images for commercial & personal use, with no attribution or user registration necessary.

Kaboompics.com

Kaboompics offers free images in multiple sizes for commercial & personal use, no attribution required. Image color palettes are provided so users can match project style elements to the image's colors.

10 Resources for Free-for-Commercial-Use Images

Freerangestock.com

Freerange Stock provides free stock images for commercial & personal use, without attribution. The site requests users log in to download images, which come in a variety of sizes.

PicJumbo.com

PicJumbo offers free high-resolution stock photos, backgrounds and images for commercial & personal use. Neither user registration or attribution is required.

Pexels.com

Visit Pexels to find free stock photos and videos for commercial & non-commercial use. Attribution is not required, nor is user registration.

FancyCrave.com

Need travel photos but don't have the time or money for that overseas trip? Then head to FancyCrave. Note: there are two versions of each photo, a free download version and a full-resolution version that requires payment.

10 Resources for Free-for-Commercial-Use Images

Pixabay.com

Pixabay touts a library of more than a million free stock images & illustrations for commercial & non-commercial use. No attribution or user registration is necessary, either.

Unsplash.com

Visit Unsplash to search among thousands of free high-resolution images for commercial & non-commercial use. User registration isn't required, nor is attribution (though it is encouraged).

CreativeCommons.org

Creative Commons offers free stock images for commercial & personal use, though some images require attribution (depending on the license). Learn more here: <https://creativecommons.org/faq/>

VisualHunt.com

VisualHunt offers a variety of free images that can be sorted by license type of public domain, commercial, and non-commercial. Attribution may be required depending on license type.

For more information on web design resources, content creation, and hidden tools and gems on the Internet, visit www.jltcreations.com.